U. S. STEPS INTO 'DRAFT' STRIKE

Mediator Tries Hand as Virginia "Mobilizes" AFL Power Workers.

By The Associated Press
RICHMOND, Va., March 30—A federal conciliator attempted today to avert a threatened strike at the Virginia Electric and Power Co. as the state adjutant's office carried out Gov. William M. Tucker's orders to draft the utility's employees into Virginia's "unorganized militia" to keep them on the job.

Officials of the company and union representatives decided at a meeting today they would agree to arbitration in an effort to prevent a scheduled walkout April 1 of 1,200 employees.

In the opening remark made at a meeting which began at 10:15 this morning, the International Brotherhood of Electric Workers asked for arbitration on all matters on which the parties cannot agree. Company officials quickly agreed with the union on this issue and said they were anxious to settle the matter fully so that Governor William M. Tucker could be notified immediately that there was no strike.

The two parties broke up their meeting temporarily while a draft of a settlement procedure was being drawn up.

Labor Conciliator Lucien F. Rye said he had arranged a meeting between company representatives and members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (I.B.E.W.) in an effort to reach an agreement on submitting the issues to arbitration.

Willing To Talk

The union has indicated it is willing to arbitrate on retroactive pay, but the company has called for inclusion of all issues and withdrawal of the strike threat. In addition to a general pay increase of 10 cents an hour, contract negotiations involved holiday pay, sick leave and other provisions.

In an effort to block an interruption of electric service, Gov. Tucker yesterday invoked an obscure section of the commonwealth's code and ordered the company's 1,600 workers drafted to prevent them from going on strike at midnight Sunday. The move would affect Virginia and parts of North Carolina and West Virginia.

The move was bitterly attacked by labor leaders and the legality of the action, which puts the workers under martial law subject to court martial if they refused to obey orders to work for the state, was questioned immediately.

William Green, AFL president, called it "involuntary servitude."

Union Eyes Action

What move the union might make to counter the governor's action was not clear. E. J. Brown, president of the AFL electrical workers union, asserted the union did not believe the governor had the power to take his action and he was waiting legal advice as to how to proceed.

Meanwhile, the state adjutant's office reported serving of the draft orders was proceeding without difficulty.

Missing Child Found Unhurt

Philadelphia Boy Safe in N.Y.; Police Holding Woman Hitch-Hiker.

By The Associated Press
WARSAW, N. Y., March 30—Three-year-old Mayer Trobman, object of an intensive search since Wednesday, was safe today in a Warsaw boarding home awaiting return to his parents in Philadelphia.

The child was found yesterday afternoon in a school house in nearby Attica. Shortly afterward, a young woman hitch-hiker told police she had brought Mayer there after a truck driver had left him in her care.

Wyoming County Sheriff Lewis Spring said the woman, booked on a vagrancy charge, identified herself as Miss Janet Holloway, 23, of Newark, N. J. She was picked up on the highway near Attica soon after teachers had reported to police that they saw a woman leave the boy.

The sheriff said this was her story:

She met a truckdriver in New York City and rode to Philadelphia with him "for the adventure of it." He had the baby with him. It was "sometime between Monday and yesterday." They proceeded from Philadelphia to Lancaster, Pa., where the driver asked her to get out with the baby until he unloaded. When he did come back, she accepted a ride to Attica. Spring said positive identification of the child was established through a scar on his stomach.

The sheriff said the boy was "in good condition," apparently unharmed.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Trobman, parents of three other children, were informed last night that Mayer had been found.

Greece, Founder of Democracy, Gets Free Vote Again Sunday

By HAL BOYLE
AP Newsfeature Writer

ATHENS, March 30—For the first time in a decade in this historic birthplace of democracy, Greek voters will go to the polls tomorrow to pick by free balloting a new government for the only country in the key Balkans where Moscow has taken no potentially decisive role.

It is one of the most important elections of post-war Europe because Greece is the last outpost in the Balkans of a dominant British empire influence. This tiny nation is also the only Balkan country which has not been engulfed by the leftist political enthusiasm sweeping west and south from victorious Communism.

Almost all veteran political observers here believe the elections will return a government predominantly right of center and perhaps pave the way for the return of King George, an absentee monarch whose presence here is desired by many thousands of subjects only because they regard him as lesser of two evils. The other evil in their views is Communism.

And it is only on that issue—anything rather than Communism—

U. N. AWAITING SOVIET-IRANIAN WORD ON FEUD

Direct Answers May Make It Unnecessary for Council To Act in Dispute.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, March 30—The possibility arose today that replies by Prime Minister Stalin and Premier Ahmed Qavam to security council inquiries about the situation in Iran might obviate further United Nations action in the Russian-Iranian dispute.

The council yesterday adopted the direct method of asking Stalin and Qavam for reports on the status of negotiations between their countries and for information whether Russia is exacting concessions for pulling Red Army troops out of oil-rich Iran. During the discussions, secretary of State James F. Byrnes suggested that the answers—if and when they come—might show that the two countries needed no further assistance in settling their dispute.

Messages to Stalin and Qavam—fixing 11 a. m. Wednesday, April 3, as the deadline for receipt of the replies in New York—were sent by the council secretary last night to Ambassadors Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union and Hussein Ala of Iran, for relay to their home governments.

Byrnes' Argument

"If the council could obtain more adequate and exact information regarding the status of negotiations between the Soviet government and the Iranian government, the council might be able to satisfy itself that the assurances of the Soviet government as to the prompt withdrawal of troops from Iran are in fact for all practical purposes unconditional," Byrnes told the council yesterday.

"In that event, there might be no need for the council to go into the substantive issues," he added, "provided it reserved the right to both parties to have the case immediately taken up by the council should there be any developments which threatened to retard the withdrawal of troops."

The council thus went over the heads of Delegate Gromyko, who has absented himself from all sessions since losing his fight to stand off consideration of Iran's complaints until April 10, and Hussein Ala, who stoutly disputes Gromyko's contentions that an understanding has been reached between Russia and Iran.

Answers Three Questions

The Iranian ambassador was recalled to the council table yesterday to answer three questions put by the Polish delegate, Oscar Lange, just before adjournment, was taken last Wednesday when Gromyko walked out.

Hussein Ala replied that:

(1) He was acting on "clear and broad" instructions to support the interests of his country; (2) He has no information, "official or otherwise," that any Soviet troops have crossed the border from Iran into Russia and "there can be no negotiations in the true sense while foreign troops are in any part of Iran"; and (3) Premier Qavam instructed him to refer the issues to the security council "precisely" because of "his desire to be free from pressure from any foreign government in conducting affairs of his office."

Merely a Maneuver

Reuther's position on "ability to pay" as a future argument for wage increases was significant since he had acknowledged during his election campaign against R. J. Thomas that his demand to "look at the books" of General Motors was "merely a part of our maneuvers."

Regarding the make-up of executive board, it is impossible to designate the members definitely as Reutherites and anti-Reutherites, since some of them do not fit wholly in any faction. But followers of Secretary-Treasurer George Addes and Vice-President Thomas are numerous on the board.

Only two new faces will appear on the executive board.

One is Sgt. Emil Mazey, who is in the Philippines with the Army. He was one of the leaders of the recent "we want to go home" demonstrations in the Philippines.

The other new board member is William C. Stevenson. Mazey and Stevenson become regional directors in Detroit.

First Fire Run Made

Under New Contract

A grass fire in a lot north of the city on route four, on the west side of the extension of North Main street, yesterday gave the fire department its first township run under the provisions of the agreement reached Monday with township trustees.

Spark from a passing locomotive started the fire in the lot owned by Henry True of 149 East Church street. The call came at 6:42 p. m. and was answered by the chief's car and firemen from the East Main street station. There was no loss.

Have Their Reasons

Five men talked to alone in different places and at different times expressed the view that they preferred Republican democracy but that chiefly they wanted a stable government that would end Greece's internal unrest. They dislike King George because they feel he lent the weight of his throne to a dictatorial government set up in 1936 by the late General Metaxas and

SENATE HANDS TRUMAN WAGE BILL SETBACK

Measure Appears Doomed as Farm Price Increases Win 42-31.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 30—The administration started today under a severe senate setback that threatened to doom President Truman's minimum wage legislation.

The showdown came on a proposal to incorporate in the bill provisions that would boost farm prices, and the proposal won 42-31 yesterday despite Mr. Truman's advance warning that he would veto the measure in that form.

The senate's vote-and-recess gave perplexed presidential lieutenants a chance to take inventory and consider reworking plans in the face of a politically important defeat.

The farm-price boost amendment won approval after less than an hour of fiery debate. The roll-call vote found 24 Democrats and 19 Republicans shouting "yes" and 21 Democrats, 8 Republicans and the lone Progressive LaFollette (Wis.) answering the "no" asked by the President.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ft.), who had gravely delivered the White House veto warning, refused comment on what he planned next.

Hopes for Agreement

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), who championed the amendment which would revise government parity-price methods, commented:

"I think the senate has done the proper and just thing, and I hope the President will reconsider his decision."

There appeared to be small likelihood the President would reverse his stand, most senators agreed.

Majority Leader Barkley touched off the fireworks just after senators had been called to the chamber to decide the controversial parity issue.

"I have been requested to do this by the President," the Democratic leader said gravely and explained that Mr. Truman favored a 65 cent minimum wage with expanded coverage and is "anxious to see this become law."

Barkley said the President had no desire "to inject" himself into (Turn to WAGE BILL, Page 8)

3-Way Race for Chairmanship, Stassen Stunt Stir Up G. O. P.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 30—A brisk three-cornered race for the G. O. P. national chairmanship plus a new political experiment by Harold E. Stassen provided an advance build-up today for next week's meeting of the Republican national committee.

As committee members began assembling here for Monday's sessions, Reps. Carroll Reece of Tennessee and Clarence Brown of Ohio and former Senator John A. Danaher of Connecticut appeared the top contenders for the post to be vacated by Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr.

Supporters claimed Reece had mustered strong support, but there were indications that Danaher and Brown are very much in the running. Some said a dark horse might be chosen if a row develops.

Has Potentialities

The Stassen experiment had no connection with the committee meeting, but party stalwarts gave it more than passing attention because the former Minnesota governor is widely regarded as a potential contender for the G. O. P. presidential nomination in 1948.

The experiment takes the form of a new national organization designed to develop suggestions for party policy from young Republicans through open forum discussions. Stassen, who will be chairman of its advisory committee, announced the launching of the new organization last night.

Several national committeemen took a skeptical view of the forum scheme, and some who would not be quoted directly said it looked to them more like a Stassen enterprise than a strictly Republican organization.

In the G. O. P. chairmanship race, Reece seemed to have more backing among committee members than any of the others, but there was unmistakable evidence that some supporters of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York consider the Tennessee lawmaker too closely associated politically with Senator Robert Taft; and former Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, who might be presidential aspirants.

Lean Toward Danaher

As a result, these Dewey supporters were said to be leaning toward Danaher, appointed by Brownell as a $20,000-a-year liaison.

SECRETARY AT MINE LEADER'S HOTEL SUITE

Coal Miners Due To Walk Out at Midnight Sunday with Hope Dim.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 30—Secretary of Labor Schweikert conferred today with John L. Lewis, seeking to avert a paralyzing walkout of 400,000 soft coal miners tomorrow night at midnight.

Schweikert and Assistant Secretary John W. Gibson consulted the mine union chief in his hotel suite while operators marked time in negotiations over the expiring contract which appeared hopelessly deadlocked.

It was indicated Schweikert would confer with operators later.

The secretary declined to say whether he had prepared a suggested compromise on Lewis' mine contract demands.

Welfare Big Item

Lewis' principal request this year is for creation of a health and welfare fund.

The scheduled work halt would not be felt until Tuesday because Monday is a traditional holiday in the mines.

Lewis' UMW Journal, published today, said "there is no hope or likelihood the operators will agree to any part" of the union's demands before the Sunday midnight deadline. A similar view that no agreement was in sight was taken by the National Coal association, bituminous trade organization, in a statement yesterday.

Lewis has demanded establishment of a health and welfare fund for miners financed from assessments on coal tonnage produced, with the funds to be administered by his union. The coal association contended this would make Lewis "a dictator more powerful than any America has ever known."

Avoids Wage Demand

The operators have offered to match "the wage pattern" set in the automobile, oil and steel industries. But Lewis has avoided any specific wage increase demands, pending a decision on his health and welfare fund proposal.

Auto Men Moan As OPA Again Cuts Profits and Boosts Prices

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 30—Dealers took sharp issue with OPA today as auto industry wage increases boosted retail prices $1 to $31 for new cars built by Chrysler, Ford, Hudson and Nash.

To prevent a bigger increase, OPA ordered dealers' profit margins trimmed another two percentage points. They took a cut of two and a half points last November.

Lee W. Moran, executive vice president of the national Automobile Dealers association, termed the fresh cut a "cockeyed idea," and said his organization will continue to press its campaign to have congress outlaw the cost absorption principle.

"We are going to hammer away in every manner, shape and form until something is done about it," Moran told a reporter.

In announcing the price increases last night, OPA said it expects that auto manufacturers' prices generally will have to be raised an average of 2.5 per cent as the result of wage increases already granted or anticipated.

See Higher Profits

It said that despite the uniform cut of two more points in the discount margins of all dealers, their will make a "greater net profit" than before the war.

OPA based this belief on its expectation that dealers will not lower as much money outlays, and that their selling expense will be less.

The retail increases announced apply to nine makes of cars—Plymouth, Dodge, DeSoto, Chrysler, Ford, Mercury, Lincoln, Hudson and Nash.

They cover all models produced since March 11. The increases are smallest for the four Chrysler-built cars, running only $1 or $2 for each model. They are largest for the Lincoln line—$28 to $51.

The Ford increases range from $10 to $15; Mercury $11 to $18; Hudson $12 to $22; and Nash $1 to $10.

GM Deep Freezes

Meanwhile, an OPA official who asked that his name be withheld said he still expects that retail prices for the General Motors line will average about 2 1/2 per cent less than 1942 prices for Chevrolets, Buicks, Pontiacs, Oldsmobiles and Cadillacs. Thus far only one model of this line—the Chevrolet four-door sedan—has been priced at $98 more than in 1942, and OPA said this increase was for design and engineering improvements and that it did not take into account the 17 1/2 per cent hourly wage increases recently granted by GM.

The new Chevrolet price of $976, announced yesterday, applies only to models that were produced prior to the end of the OPA era.

Small Business Office Opened in Columbus

The United States department of commerce, office of small business, has established a district office in Columbus, located temporarily at 1037 North High street. The office will serve the central and south eastern section of Ohio.

John A. Burk, who was formerly connected with the local office of the Smaller War Plants Corp., has been appointed district manager. The reconversion period has presented small business with many problems: part of which are of a local nature, the balance being national in scope. Mr. Burk said, it will be the purpose of the new office to provide personal service to small business on local problems and to provide representation in Washington, through the central office, on problems of a national character, when called upon to do so by small business located within this district.

Scope of operations at present will be to assist small business with inter-governmental agencies contact, technical advice, market analysis and general assistance. Department of commerce is formulating additional programs for the assistance of small business.

New Water Storage Tank Here Will Go Into Use Monday

Marion's water system will start operation from the new 300,000-gallon water tank on Gurley avenue Monday, L. Otis Porter, Marion Water company manager, announced today.

By Monday the tank will be thoroughly tested and sterilized and will be placed in regular operation, Mr. Porter said. Operation of the new tank will double the available water pressure capacity in Marion, company engineers believe.

With the exception of a few complications, the new tank has "tested perfectly," the water company manager reported. The sterilizing solution placed in the tank Tuesday was drained into the sewers Wednesday night. Today the tank is being flushed out again and Monday it will be filled with clean water and put in operation.

The old water standpipe, which stands beside the new tank, is now being torn down. It is about two-thirds down now and will be completely down, with the exception of the foundation, by Tuesday, according to Mr. Porter.

As soon as the new tank is in operation, a new automatic system of recording water level in the tank will be installed. The system will make it possible for engineers at the pumping station to know at all times the exact water level in the tank.

Ohio Showing Tarzan Film

Johnny Weissmuller in Leading Role; "Saratoga Trunk" Coming Tuesday.

"Tarzan and the Amazons" starring Johnny Weissmuller, Brenda Joyce, Johnny Sheffield, and Shirley O'Hara is now playing through Monday at the Ohio theater.

Revolving around a strange race of women living in a secret valley in the heart of Africa which is almost unknown and cannot readily be seen, this picture is filled with adventure and action. To keep their independence, the Amazons kill any intruder discovering the secret entrance to their country.

On their way to meet Jane, played by Brenda Joyce, who is returning from a trip to Europe, Tarzan, and the Boy, played by Johnny Sheffield, and Cheta, their pet chimpanzee, rescue a wandering girl of the Amazon tribe, played by Shirley O'Hara. Tarzan then takes her back to the hidden country. This, because of their way of thinking, causes a big disturbance among the tribe.

A new March of Time, "Report on Greece," will be shown with the feature picture. This tells of the Greek drama of power politics against a background of Nazi-inflicted ruin.

"Saratoga Trunk" starring Gary Cooper and Ingrid Bergman will be shown for 10 days starting Tuesday.

This is the story of a fortune-seeking girl, Clio Dolaine, played by Ingrid Bergman, who arrives in her native New Orleans on a day in 1873 from France. In the French market there she meets Clint Maroon, played by Gary Cooper, a cowboy from Texas. They are attracted to each other and their romance keeps New Orleans talking. It also attracts the Dolaine family scandal which involves Clio's dead parents.

ARMY, NAVY ASK FOR EXTENSION OF DRAFT

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 30—The Navy teamed up with the Army yesterday in asking congress to extend the draft act beyond May 15.

Vice Adm. Louis E. Denfield, Navy personnel chief, told the senate military committee the Navy was getting plenty of volunteers but said they were joining to avoid being inducted into the Army.

The admiral said the Navy had 449,000 regulars signed up as of April 1 but that it needed 60,000 more, or about 30,000 monthly in order to reach a planned strength of 350,000 regulars by Sept. 1. Senator O'Mahoney (D-Vt.) asked how the Navy would use the 300,000 men.

Denfield said 250,000 were needed to man the active fleets at 70 per cent of full complement, 30,000 each for fleet support outside and within the country, 60,000 for training, with the balance in assigned assignments.

Senator Hart (R-Conn.), a retired admiral, asked if the 70 per cent complement on active fighting ships was "skeletonized." "Yes sir," Admiral Denfield replied. "I would not like to go into battle with 70 per cent complement."

Opposition testimony came from H. C. Holdridge, who identified himself as a retired brigadier general and West Point graduate. He said the draft extension is a "broad program of militarization of the United States."

today. In a strongly worded note, "John Doe" forwarded the information that an avocado is an avocado, and not by any stretch of the imagination a pear. The avocado is a tropical fruit and the pear is a cold climate fruit, he wrote, and they are not in any way related. Our informant volunteered that the error might be explained by the fact that avocados are sometimes called "calavo pears" by the uniformed. However, he said, "calavo is simply a trade name meaning superior, and an avocado is still by no means a pear."

HUFFMAN ASKS HALT ON ATOM BOMB TEST

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 30—Senator Huffman (D-Ohio) yesterday offered a resolution calling for outright cancellation of the proposed atom bomb tests at Bikini, about 100 miles from the United Nations Organization is in its infancy. It is incongruous to its every purpose and aim for this nation or any nation to exhibit large-scale preparation for future wars, and it is unthinkable that the United States should even remotely indicate that she is preparing for an atomic war.

When President Truman last week postponed the tests for May to early July, Huffman said at once that "the postponement should be made permanent." Mr. Huffman reiterated at a news conference yesterday that the postponement was based solely upon a desire to accommodate members of congress who desired to witness the tests and who could not be present on the earlier proposed date.

When Can I Get Delivery?

Deliveries of new Ford, Mercury and Lincoln cars and new Ford trucks are made in the same sequence in which orders are placed with the following exceptions:

1. Every third place on the list is given to a veteran.
When an order is received, the buyer's name is placed on two lists. The first list establishes his position in relation to all other orders of the same body type. The position of each name on the first list changes with deliveries and cancellations. On the second list the position changes only with deliveries and cancellations of the same body type. In addition, it changes as buyers ahead of him switch to or from that same body type. On the first list, no buyer's position can ever be worse (except in a few rare instances) than it was when it was put on the list. On the second list, however, the position of any given name is constantly shifting up or down. For example, suppose that an order for a deluxe coupe goes on the first list as 123 and on the body type list as 16. Now suppose that one month later, four orders—but none of them for a deluxe coupe—have been cancelled, 10 cars, one of which was a deluxe coupe, have been delivered and three buyers have switched from their first body selection to a deluxe coupe. On the first list, the position that was 123 has now become 109, because the cancellation of 4 orders and the delivery of 10 cars has cut the list by 14. The shifting of body specifications has not affected the position of any name on this list. The position of the buyer's name on the body type list, however, is affected differently. The four cancellations did not affect it because none of them involved a deluxe coupe. Since there was a delivery made of one deluxe coupe, the buyer's position changed from 16 to 15. Then, since three buyers who had originally specified other body types switched to deluxe coupes, the position of his order now becomes 18. So it is that a position on the body type list may become worse, in spite of the fact that deliveries and cancellations have cut the total number of orders.
2. Some Mercury and Lincoln buyers, living outside Marion County, are given a factory-set priority.

Following are questions that are frequently brought up in connection with deliveries

- How is veteran priority established?
When orders are listed, every third place is set aside for a veteran's order. This automatically prefers the veteran's to those of non-veterans received on the same date.
- Why is it necessary to specify a body type when an order is placed?
This is required so that we will know what type of a car to order from the factory.
- Why is a buyer permitted to change his body specifications after his order is placed?
There is such a long time lapse between placing an order and making delivery that the buyer cannot always accurately forecast his needs. Changes in jobs, financial obligations, residence and the size of family groups may change the buyer's mind.
- Why do some persons get delivery before others with a higher time priority?
This happens because all do not want the same body style or the same color. If, for example, the cars received from the factory run heavily to black coupes, a buyer in a lower position on the list may get a delivery before a buyer who wants a maroon tudor sedan.
- Why can't a buyer place an order for the first car that he can get?
As a matter of fact, delivery frequently works out this way. Although, each buyer has to specify a body type, individual buyers begin to get within reach of a delivery when their name gets to within 15 or 20 places of the top of the list.
- If a buyer refuses a car, does he lose his place on the list?
No. He retains his place until he finds exactly the car he wants. When his name reaches the top of the list, he has the refusal of every car that comes in.
- Why is a deposit required?
This is necessary to protect the buyer's position and to validate the order with the factory. Posting a deposit makes it impossible for a buyer to come in with witnesses and a claim that he had given his order at some earlier date.
- Will a deposit be refunded when an order is cancelled?
Yes, it is refunded at any time for any reason.
- How much of a deposit is required?
$25.00.
- Can a buyer transfer his position on the list?
No. If a buyer does not want a car, he cancels his order and the whole list below him moves up one place.
- Is it necessary to trade in a car before making delivery of a new car?
No.
- Why aren't deliveries of new cars made in accordance with the needs of the purchaser?
This would be the fairest way to distribute new cars, but the job of determining which need is greater is too big for our capacities.
- Is a sudden change in the transportation needs of a buyer sufficient to change his priority?
Such a change, of itself, does not change the buyer's priority, but we will always try to work out a switch with some of the higher priority buyers that will help relieve the situation.

56 NEW CARS and TRUCKS DELIVERED

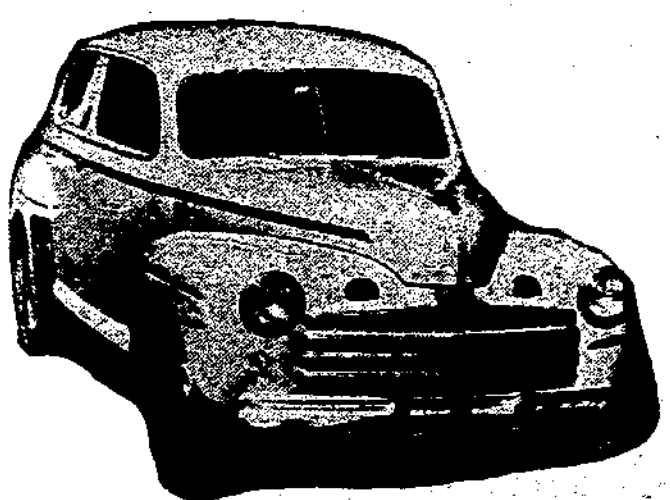

Since the start of Ford production on July 3, 1945, we have received and delivered 56 new cars and trucks. Within the last 20 days, we have received 31 new units—20 Ford cars, 1 Mercury and 10 trucks. For this reason, we think that the Marion County buyer has a good chance for fast delivery by placing his order with us. Since deposits are refundable on demand there is nothing to lose by insuring an early priority. The following orders by body styles are now on our books.

Truck Deliveries

Separate lists are kept for all truck orders, but generally speaking the same rules apply to truck deliveries as to car deliveries. There are two principal differences. In the case of a business organization, a formal, signed purchasing order is accepted in place of a deposit. Secondly, since many trucks are ordered with detailed specifications, they are delivered to the buyer as soon as they are received regardless of the buyer's priority standing on the list.

United Nations in the Balance

IF RUSSIANS as a nation knew what was happening and were privileged to speak, they probably would be as disturbed over their government's stiff-backed attitude in the Iron Curtain as Americans.

It is no secret that which is the problem, even the unity of small nations against large ones, but how to keep governments and differences of opinion from breaking off negotiations and laying the groundwork for irreconcilable differences.

The north Russia has done is not irreparable, but great harm has been done, and greater harm may follow. It has demonstrated intolerance of the policy of cooperative security to be reached by discussion and majority opinion. It has done an effect which Germany and Japan did when they demonstrated intolerance of the League of Nations. It has not withdrawn, but it has made a gesture of impatience that reveals its impatience with an effort to settle international issues by council.

American faith in Russian intentions has been damaged most seriously, of course, by a violation of the code of sportsmanship. The code is not binding, of course, on Russia. It is not even binding on Americans. But participants who walk away from contests in which they are hard-pressed lose the benefit of the doubt in sportsmanship. Russia has struck a sour note that will be hard to sweeten if sweetening ever becomes an objective of the Soviet Union's enigmistic diplomacy.

A Big Bite To Chew

TESTIMONY by a spokesman for the American Meat Institute that the black market in this one commodity is costing consumers a billion and a quarter dollars a year could be multiplied many times by comparable conditions in other businesses.

The spread between the government's official price and the price prevailing in illegal sales can be controlled after a fashion but cannot be wiped out by government enforcement. In many lines of business, such a spread can be found. To stop it would require vastly more manpower than the government can provide.

Every new restriction, such as the one lately placed on construction of virtually everything but low-cost houses, creates a new enforcement problem. The government agencies responsible for seeing that the restrictions mean something have a big bite to chew. It threatens to be too big. It threatens to lead to as serious a breakdown of the government's ability to maintain its prestige as national prohibition under the Volstead Act.

Increasingly, the question in continuing government controls and in setting up new controls is the government's ability to enforce. It is not a question of what OPA, for instance, should do but a question of what OPA is doing and what it can do. It is not a question of how many new houses the government should be thinking about but of how many new houses the government is doing something about. Washington is drifting close to the danger of having the public greet its pronouncements with the indifference born of conviction that they must be taken with a grain of salt.

Accept No Substitutes

IN THE OPINION of many Washington observers President Truman has been forced to abandon his original middle-of-the-road position in politics and veer to the left. The forcing was done by his political advisers, with an eye to the Truman administration's future at the polls. Their reasoning is obvious.

The middle of the political road already is claimed by the opposition. The three Republican presidential candidates defeated by Franklin D. Roosevelt after 1932, when he himself ran as a moderate, later to veer left, all did their running in the middle of the road. The next Republican candidate may be expected to represent moderation, too.

Therefore, Mr. Truman's chance lies in changing his own political character from moderate to extreme. He must be more like Henry Wallace, less like Senator Byrd of Virginia, more like Henry Kaiser, less like Eric Johnston. His philosophy, if the Washington observers are guessing right, will be 100-proof CIO-PAC from now on, to attract votes where Democratic Chairman Hannegan, Mr. Wallace and the party's hard-headed city bosses hope to reap the harvest.

This maneuver, or rather this routine development in fashioning a political character for the relatively unknown man who became chief executive a year ago, must overcome one heavy handicap—the fact that it must make Mr. Truman appear to be the pawn of one of the elements of the coalition which his predecessor held together by his personal leadership. Instead of giving him stronger political character, the effect may be the opposite. It may rob him of whatever character he had developed as a man cast by historic chance in the role of mediator.

Treasure Hunt in Switzerland

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Allies Continue To Dig After Nazis' Hidden Assets.

A SERIOUS difference of opinion, between the Allies and neutral Switzerland, is now under discussion in Washington. It has to do with the custody of Nazi assets in that country.

The Allies have a vital interest in those assets, first, because they have latched in Germany only a small amount of reparations and, next, because since the Allies are, in fact, the only legal government in Germany, they claim custody of German assets everywhere. In living guilt for past Nazi crimes and safeguarding the future against the revival of Nazism, every important piece of evidence needs to be examined by the powers sitting in judgment.

The case of Switzerland is being presented in Washington by a mission headed by Dr. Walter Stucki.

Lucky Break

The little Confederation of Republics has had a lucky break in recent times. For a century and a half, no hostile armies have come into its borders, except in 1914.

Just a Minute

By Jack Tarver

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR EXPERIENCE?

In San Francisco a group of middle-aged women, retelling against the emphasis on youth, love, have petitioned Hollywood for more films aimed at over-40 audiences.

In their enthusiasm for Van Johnson and Sonny Tufts, one of the movie moguls have lost sight of the underserved portion of their customer, the superannuated baby-sitters.

The latter go for the more mature type and they don't mean Victor.

Ma can hardly be expected, after a hard day with the kids, to look with favor on a screen hero who appeals only to her maternal instincts.

All of which doubtless means that Hollywood, which aims—not always accurately, to please, will dust off some of the matinee idols of the Valentino era and bring their fading pates back under the klieg lights.

This will be looked upon with favor by all save juvenile customers, and the studio soundmen charged with silencing the creaking of joints as the hero comes on stage.

But it will save a lot of time in Hollywood, not having to wait around three months for scenes in which the youthful star has to be pictured with six o'clock shadow.

Cities Wage War on Dirt

Move To Shake Off "Wartime Doldrums" Is On.

Sanitation, lighting, and dirty streets has provoked further civic action throughout the east as cities again stress the need of shaking off wartime doldrums.

Atlanta has carried recent widespread sanitation emphasis into an all-out drive against dirty restaurants, which found 10 experts from the city health department walking the street daily on regular inspection trips.

What efforts were being directed at clearing up any bacteria and vermin "necrotics" hidden in food dispensing establishments, particular emphasis was being placed on lav dishwashing. Inspectors were hitting at "dunking" use of lukewarm water, and careless, sloppy, untanned help. Harold P. Hobbs, city sanitation, meanwhile, had issued this advice to patrons of restaurants.

Look for Dirt

"Good housekeeping is the way to judge. Don't pay any attention to the chromium of the curtains. Look around to see if there's grease and dust on the window sills and under the table. If there is, it's worse where it does the most harm."

Savannah, likewise, is in step with the clean-up movement in the South, and has already had a thorough brushing-up campaign which presented a clean civic face for the delegates to the international monetary conference.

The city acted after recent criticism from Lady Astor had stirred local pride against postwar grime. With a zeal at the height for the conference, citizens boasted that Savannah had "not only washed her face but was putting a rose in her hair."

Clean-Up Planned

New York also has taken her civic appearance to heart and is planning a spring cleaning campaign, opening May 1. This will be conducted by the Outdoor Cleanliness association, in cooperation with the sanitation department. Street litter, rubbish in vacant lots, and painting or cleaning of neglected buildings will be objectives of the drive.

Mrs. Frothingham Wagstaff, president of the Cleanliness group, said that efforts also will be directed at installation of better lights and planting of victory gardens.

Women Fight Smoke

MILWAUKEE—Smoke elimination replaced smoke abatement in civic philosophy as this city heard new demands for action in this direction.

Estimating that residents could save $7,500,000 in cleaning bills and smoke damage annually, the League of Women Voters had called for an all-out offensive against the nuisance.

"We demand pure food and pure water, so why not pure air?" a spokesman said. "We have put up with smoke abatement long enough; let us now have smoke elimination."

Happiness consists not in possessing much, but in being content with what we possess. He who wants little always has enough.—Zimmerman.

Switzerland. The Swiss have also been kindly hosts to many refugees and political refugees. More important in the present situation is the role of Switzerland as a refuge for fugitive capital. A large supply of money has permitted the little country to enjoy a low interest rate. And because of the influx of capital, the Swiss have always been strong supporters of private property in Europe.

After the first World War, Switzerland limited its hospitality to foreigners. She was one of the first countries to claim that foreigners had to have a permit to stay and another permit to work. A permit to work was given to only a few, because it was claimed that Switzerland had large unemployment.

Despite the determination of the Swiss to maintain their independence against Nazi Germany, the great strength of their neighbor brought unusual concessions. The Nazis "bought" on credit a large amount of staff intended to help their war machine.

There is some dispute about the amount of Swiss claims against the German government and German nationals. A preliminary census of the banks brought out the figure of $250 million.

Agreement Reached

A good will agreement has just been reached with Dr. Stucki to the effect that Switzerland would claim no reimbursement for a $250-million deficit in the Swiss clearing account with Germany. This means, essentially, that the Swiss will not hold the amount of German assets against their claims. But at the same time, Switzerland is already raising the amount of her claims to $750 million. In short, Swiss claims rise as Allied estimates of German assets rise. The Allied claims are based on information unearthed in Germany during the occupation.

Meanwhile, subcommittees are at work in Washington matching data and with the slowness with which these negotiations are proceeding is good evidence of how long it will be before German assets are unearthed in other countries, such as Spain, Portugal and Argentina. But the treasure hunt must go on. The original estimate of Potsdam, of $1 billion in hidden German funds is now believed to be too low. It is probable that $2 billion are in golden Nazi nests in Switzerland and elsewhere.

EVERYWHERE THAT MARY WENT

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, March 30, 1936. Representatives from 150 communities were in Washington where they sought to convince the Army engineers a canal from Lake Erie to the Ohio river would extend its benefits from western Pennsylvania to industrial centers along the great lakes.

Temperatures of 15 to 20 degrees were in the offing, and colder weather with rain changing to light snow was scheduled to put an end to "summer weather."

George Santayana's widely-discussed novel, "The First Puritan," was reviewed by Mrs. Depew Head at Columbus, to close a series of book reviews given by her under auspices of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Rose Helwig as worthy high priestess, and other newly-elected officers were installed by Marion Shume No. 15, White Shrine of Jerusalem in ceremonies witnessed by 350 members and guests, in the Masonic temple.

Mrs. Leah Ann Krause, 64, widow of Samuel M. Krause, died at her home at 384 North State street, in the house which had been her home for 68 years.

Fire caused by lightning during an electrical storm destroyed a barn containing eight tons of hay on the John Sherman farm on the Linn-Hopfer road three and one half miles northeast of Marion.

Receipts from sale of sales tax stamps in the county for the preceding week amounted to $6,807.42, County Treasurer Homer D. Cole reported. The amount was $314.06 over the preceding week.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, March 30, 1926. Sen. R. B. Howell of Nebraska launched the opposition's attack against the Italian war debt settlement, recently consummated following similar pacts effected with other debtor nations. He assailed the settlement as a "deception" of the American people and said the five pacts ratified would cause the American government a financial loss of $30,185,336,000.

Western Union offices were moved from the Hotel Marion building on East Center street where they had been approximately 40 years, to 175 West Center street in the Wiant building.

Ray R. King, general superintendent of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., addressed the Apprentice club on "The Value of Shop Training."

Mrs. S. E. Barlow and Mrs. Charles Turner were made life members of the Foreign Missionary society and Mrs. J. W. Hunsinger and Mrs. Alice B. Anderson life members of the Home Missionary society at a meeting of the Westminster Bible class of the First Presbyterian church held at the home of Mrs. Cloyd Lindsay. Mrs. Hunsinger was elected president of the class.

Ingredients of a Congressman

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—This is Congressional election year.

Thousands of men and women all over the country who never have been in Congress will be angling for those 435 House seats. Have they any idea what they are getting into? Do you really have any idea what their qualifications should be?

Seven years ago, Rep. Luther Patrick, Birmingham, Ala., with lawyer, writer, radio commentator, lodge member and four-term House Democrat, listed ten rules of conduct and necessary qualifications for members of Congress.

With a few cuts for brevity and modernity, here they are:

1. Entertain with a smile constituents, their wives, their sons, sons' wives, etc. Go with them to the White House and have ready a good reason why you are unable to have them meet the President; take daughters to meet midshipmen at Annapolis.

2. Explain what bill is up for debate, points of discussion how it will be passed, how you will vote, and why.

3. Attend to balcony and point out Speaker, Rayburn, Leavell, McCormack and Martin, John Rankin, Dewey Short and Mrs. Clare Booth Luce and all the other lady members of the House.

4. Respond to all worthy causes, make after-dinner speeches, before-dinner speeches, learn to eat everything, anywhere, any night, work all day, dictate all night and be fresh as a rain-washed daisy for next day's duties.

5. Be a cultured gentleman, a teller of ribald stories, a profound philosopher, a gagster, be a ladies' man, a man's man, a he-man, a diplomat, a Democrat with a Republican slant, a Republican with a Democratic viewpoint, a hater of the New Deal, a New Dealer, an old dealer and a quick dealer.

6. Learn how to attend six to eight major functions (back home), rushing home and back during each term on one round-trip travel pay.

7. Have the dope on hot spots in town, with choice telephone numbers for the gay boys from back home; and help to contact local moral organizations and uplift societies with offices in Washington.

8. Learn to be an expert guide.

Keep your car in up-top shape.

9. Know the names and dates related to all public buildings and statuary about Washington.

10. Be an authority on history, travel, psychology, philosophy, education, economics, physics, civics, finance, export trade, government printing, international relations, neckties and fishing tackle.

Explaining that he made no pretense of being all these things, Rep. Patrick concluded:

"A congressman has become an expando messenger, an employment agency, a get-out-of-the-Army, Navy, Marines, ward healer, wound healer, trouble shooter, law explainer, financial vet, nurse, cornerstone layer and bridge dealer."

"And find time to properly study legislation—the real business we are here to discharge."

So They Say

Harry C. Hawkins, Minister-counselor of the American Embassy in England—"If Britain does not get a loan she will have to adopt expedients in commercial policy that will cause lasting damage to the United States and the rest of the world. Britain is the key log in the log-jam and, when we apply our financial help at this point, we are applying it where it will do the most good to the whole world and hence to ourselves."

Maurice Thorez, Communist leader in France—"Until now we have led an economic life bearing no relation to our real possibilities. We spend too much, and we spend it badly. We must cut our military and civil expenditures. In reducing civilian expenditures we can simplify our overabundant administration."

F. H. LaGuardia, former mayor of New York City—"Prejudice comes from environment, and it is always grown-ups who create bias in the minds of children."

House Price Tripled

OMAHA—What inflation means in the way of home prices was indicated here recently by analysis of the actual value of a house sold for $19,500. County assessor figures carried the house at an evaluation of $5,500. The WPA scientific figure was $6,648.

WELL, I've got so many things to talk about today that I don't know where to start. First of all, I want to warn all those chuckle heads who are still asking for two cents of bread that I am warning them. I don't know who they are. The same.

And, er, right here I want to talk plan Russia. You're holding back on wheat, I know what's going on and don't you think don't. Cut it out. Get me?

Oh, say, I don't like the way things are in Berlin. I've been checking up and there's Germans in some spots. You know who I mean. Who are getting more than their share. Yes, they tell the newspapers now little they're getting to eat, but they're eating plenty. Fritz, that's not being sports, ya pig! Take a little time! Unless you obey the rules I'll be down and crack down hard!

Right here I want to call on certain people that I want more co-operation in Yugoslavia. The food is just not getting through to them. Now, cut it out, Tito! Cut it out or else!

Lemme see, er, oh, yes, I've something to say on the toast question. Say, you got a pack home who are still asking for two cents of bread that I am warning them. I don't know who they are. The same. You're holding back on wheat, I know what's going on and don't you think don't. Cut it out. Get me?

Well, my time is up and I've got to go. Naples, Moscow, Paris, London, Minsk, P. Geneva and Brussels this afternoon. So, one last word to America. None of those hamburger roasts on the beaches this summer. Get me!

In Sight, In Mind

By Truman Twill

The kitchen window sill dispensary, a built-in convenience of the 20th century home, keeps pills, capsules, lotions, salves, liquids and essences of daily health in sight and mind.

Enough space for any ordinary family will be found on two kitchen sills of average width and length, except in warm weather when windows must be pushed up and down. For warm weather a space must be kept clear in front of the window handle, and a third sill will be needed if no other sills are available in the kitchen.

All in the bathroom will do nicely. The logic of the kitchen dispensary comes from the fact that internal medicine always must be taken before or immediately after a meal. Since most borderline hypochondriacs, when all of us are becoming, are close to the kitchen at mealtime, it is logical to have health aids where the patients are.

The kitchen dispensary, as outlined in the latest inspection, contained in the order of its appearance, reading from left to right:

One roll of waterproof adhesive for first aid at the kitchen door in the event of minor injuries from baseballs, paring knives, etc. A box of prepared bandages for same purpose. A small bottle of antiseptic also for same purpose. A bottle of brewer's yeast tablets.

Jar of brewer's yeast powder because, as it is not supposed to be as potent, bottle of tonic prescribed for correction of loss of appetite. Bottle of brown tonic prescribed for lack of fancy bottle of high-priced vitamins described as double strength, bottle of medium-priced vitamins, bottle of vitamins left over from previous year and used on dog.

Envelope of pills to correct liver, capsule box of more expensive pills for same purpose. Jar of salve for treating minor skin eruptions. Bottle of patent headache pills in great demand. Envelope of unnamed pain pills in great demand. Box with indigestion, box of magic powder prescribed by doctor with instructions to use a tsp. in warm water at bedtime.

Small glass holding rubber bands for dental braces, special horse-sized vitamin capsules (very high-priced) for overcoming acute vitamin deficiency, bottle of oil of cloves for tooth treatment pending arrival of dentist's appointment. Bottle of specially-prepared bicarbonate tablets for relieving indigestion. Bottle of preparation for eye irritations. Jar of salve for treatment of skin blemishes. Box of pills for treatment of unknown ailment discovered by doctor, sack of capsules in which unknown affliction does not yield to treatment. One all-day sucker, one partly-eaten candy, three bobby pins, two paper clips, a scale, a bus check, a dry cell and a light bulb entirely burned out.

The sucker apparently had been lost in shuffle and was eaten on the spot before one else who didn't need it half so much. The same idea.

The Everlasting Arms

A Sermonette
By REV. HENRY MAAG
Pastor of Prospect Street Methodist Church.
Deuteronomy 33:27—"Underneath are the everlasting arms."

REV. HENRY MAAG

ON ALL sides today we find men and women craving for security or stability. To many, the whole life, seems to be without foundations, and people are seeking a rock on which they can set their feet and feel secure. The immediate causes of this feeling of insecurity are many, but the fundamental reason is that the heart has no abiding center of rest. Among the immediate causes of the feeling of instability in these days are the economic factor, and also the international situation. All around the world seems to be shaking. The situation in Europe and Asia, creates depression in the hearts of men and women, and there is being fostered in the minds of people the idea that another war is inevitable.

There is not the slightest doubt that this craving for security, for stability, is imperative, and it is universal. But all the devices resorted to by the human mind in order to satisfy are futile. The question is asked by millions of men and women, where can we find real stability and security in the midst of a world troubled and anxious? The answer is, that real stability can only be secured when the spiritual foundations of one's life are sound.

Moore's Reminder
Moore in his farewell address reminded the children of Israel, "that underneath are the everlasting arms."

"What is underneath? Science asks this question when it asks what is the light of the atom, electricity? Philosophy asks: 'What is the reality behind all appearance?' What is the everlasting background behind the coming and going of thought? What is beneath life?"

"Nothing." That is the answer of materialism. There is nothing but what we are and handle, what we can weigh, measure and test. There is nothing but matter. What is underneath?

"Law." That is the answer of determinism. All things, all persons, are pre-determined in all their impulses and actions. What is underneath?

"Something." But we don't know what. That is the answer of agnosticism, of which Herbert Spencer was the chief exponent. There is a Power everywhere prevalent but it is inscrutable. What is underneath?

"Love." says the Gospel of Christ. "Underneath are Arms." Underneath all life, all beings, all things; underneath all laws and processes, all causes and effects; the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, is Love. Holy Love is the basis fact of the universe. Out of which everything else springs. Love began the universe, and Love will end it. The very fact that we are here at all means that Love is behind all. No Love, no life! "God was lonely in His Heaven until He made someone else to love, and share His life with. That is why He took the terrible risk of giving man a measure of freedom—to win His spontaneous love."

James Reid in "The Springs of Life," says: "There is only one basis of absolute security—the love of God. Only the Eternal can give rest peace to the spirit in a material world."

"Underneath are Arms." That means sympathy. "As one whom a mother comforteth, so will I comfort you," says the Lord. "Underneath are Arms." That means Sal-

RIBBENTROP DENIES HE KNEW JAP PLANS

By The Associated Press
NUERNBERG, March 30 — Joachim von Ribbentrop denied emphatically before the international military tribunal today that Germany had advanced information on the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and declared: "It was something we never wanted."

He testified that the primary aim of the tri-partite pact signed by Germany, Italy and Japan was "above all to keep the United States out of the war and thereby isolate England."

Yesterday's business brought 162 persons into the office to file returns and had the total to 2,376, and leave slightly under 1,000 still to file. Auditor Mounts said he expected many to mail their returns to his office today, so that the number subject to penalty would not be as large as it appears.

Vaccine Stock Low As Western Cities Fight Off Smallpox

By The Associated Press

Supplies of vaccine ran low in Pacific northwest cities today as Seattle fought to curb an outbreak of smallpox that has taken five lives, and her neighbor cities sought to bar their doors to the disease by large scale vaccination programs.

California also was alerted, with San Francisco reporting eight cases. The Navy Transport L. S. S. arrived in the Bay City yesterday with another case aboard and the quarantine station said none of the 1,426 Navy men and Marines on the L. S. S. would be permitted ashore until April 1, at the earliest. No deaths had been reported in California.

In all but two of the Seattle deaths, physicians said, there were complicating factors such as heart trouble and old age. There were 22 known cases in the city. A program of mass vaccination was under way in Seattle, the city health department designating 26 first stations as immunization centers. Mobile units are visiting the region's schools.

In Portland, Ore., vaccine supplies ran low and city health authorities said that, in some cases, one vial of vaccine was used for two persons.

At Tacoma, Wash., police were called out to keep in line the crowds gathered at the city-county health department center for immunization. The supply of vaccine was exhausted at Spokane, Wash., by a sudden demand for the protection.

KILLING

year-old niece, Anna Lee Radloff, with a strap because the child had been "stubborn" about drinking her milk.

Detroit police said they were informed by Algonia authorities that Miss Wrightman's niece, Shirley Ann Little, was found dead in her crib in the Wrightman home on Dec. 26, with the corner of a blanket in her throat.

Shirley Ann was the daughter of Miss Wrightman's sister, Mrs. Phyllis Little, 19, and was born in the Wrightman home. The mother later went to Hopkinsville, Ky., and the baby was left in care of her family.

Detective Raymond said Miss Wrightman's own daughter, Victoria Ann, 2, also lived with the family. He quoted her as saying: "I had the care of both children. I got tired of taking care of the baby and of hearing about how much prettier she was than Victoria Ann. I got jealous, I guess."

"I had been drinking when I got home that night. Shirley Ann was crying and every one else was asleep upstairs. I wanted to stop her crying and I acted on impulse. Then I went to bed."

Miss Wrightman's mother discovered the body the next morning.

JAP ELECTION DATE STIRS ALLIED ROW

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 30 — Members of the Far Eastern commission met in closed session today to examine Gen. Douglas MacArthur's arguments for holding Japanese national elections April 10.

Some delegates to the 11-nation policy-making commission have registered opposition to Japanese elections at this time, but how far they would get under existing rules was speculative.

Fixed by Cabinet

The Japanese cabinet fixed the election date with MacArthur's approval. Presumably, the supreme commander had the backing of the United States government in the matter.

If this government still is convinced the Japanese balking should proceed on schedule, it can use its veto power to prevent the commission from issuing any different instruction to MacArthur. An unusual alliance with the commission was expected to press for postponement of the election. Russia's Nikolai V. Novikov was regarded by informed diplomats as certain to be in this group. So were the New Zealand and Australian delegates.

Those who oppose elections now say the bulk of the Japanese people to whom democratic practices are foreign, are not yet ready to exercise the voting privilege. An election held now, they say, inevitably would be won by the well-organized groups which controlled Japan before and during the war.

Some commission members also oppose the projected new constitution for Japan, which MacArthur has approved.

Delegates believe MacArthur could have emphasized more strongly that in endorsing the constitution he was speaking only for himself, not for all the Allied powers.

The information that the Far Eastern commission had asked MacArthur to state his reasons for holding elections April 10 was disclosed yesterday by diplomatic officials familiar with the work of the commission.

Eisenhower To Air Views of Big Brass on Gripes of G.I.'s

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 30 — General Eisenhower is going to get his chance to discuss the state of affairs in the Army.

Lt. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, who hears a six-man board studying officer-enlisted man relationships, said today the board will go to the chief of staff's office Monday.

While they're at the Pentagon, the board members also will see Lt. Gen. Carl Spaatz, boss of the Air Force, for his views.

"We heard from some of the Army's chief critics," said Doolittle, after listening to aggrieved testimony from ex-G.I.'s. "Now we'll see what Generals Eisenhower and Spaatz have to say. We're trying to be fair, and hear all sides."

Yesterday, on the second day of a hearing that may run for weeks, the board called in its first witness, Warrant Officer Irene F. Scott, who has been in the Army 31 months, said she didn't think the war was a great problem as the strictly male sections of the Army.

"We're not as old, for one thing," Miss Scott said. "We haven't had as much time for prejudices to set in."

MORE ARRESTS SEEN IN CANADA SPY HUNT

By The Associated Press

OTTAWA, March 30 — Additional arrests were predicted today in the Canadian Espionage investigation as a two-man royal commission completed its questioning of a group of government employees taken into custody six weeks ago and accused of supplying secret information to Russia.

Charges of conspiracy and violation of the Official Secrets act were filed yesterday against five persons, bringing to 12 the total of persons examined by the commission and charged in the courts.

A 14th, Fred Rose, Communist member of parliament, was committed for trial without having been examined by the commission.

The commissioners in the third interim report, said "there remain a number of witnesses yet to be heard," but that most of those were persons whose names had been mentioned previously during the six weeks of interrogations.

Sources close to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said the inquiry had uncovered information which would lead to additional arrests. It was also suggested that some other persons might already be in custody.

Yesterday's report pictured the Soviet-Directed spy ring as extremely thorough. But for a Smith who was employed in the radio branch of the national research council, was charged with taking secret documents from the council, which allegedly were photographed on microfilm at the Soviet embassy and then returned.

Those charged yesterday, besides Smith were Israel Halperin, 35-year-old university professor accused of revealing information on a fuse known as the "electro-projector," manufactured in the United States and still kept on the secret list by the western allies; Eric Adams, who obtained a degree in business administration at Harvard in 1931, accused of conspiracy; J. S. Bennet, employee of the department of munitions and supply, accused of violating the Official Secrets act; and Squadron Leader Fred Pollock, administrative intelligence officer in the Royal Canadian Air Force, charged with violating the Official Secrets act.

abrogated constitutional guarantees of assembly and free speech. For this he remains unforgotten by his people who bow to no one in their long and costly love of liberty.

It will be a typical Balkan election. Twenty-one political parties have put up some thousand candidates for 354 parliamentary seats.

The Greeks, who fought the Germans most stubbornly, also suffered the most and have fewer quailings per square mile than any occupied country. Many will tramp weary mountain miles in ragged clothes on shoes soled with old automobile tire rubber to reach one of the 3,200 polling places. Hundreds of American, British and French observers will watch the election but take no part.

Most politicians concede that of the 21 parties that will participate only six are considered important. The Populist party, which is Royalist, will dominate election. They estimate it may win up to 200 seats, which would give it a parliamentary majority.

Mackenzie Backs LaGuardia's Plea for Food Relief

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Back from adventures in foreign fields just in time for the encouraging declaration by UNRRA's new chief Fiorello LaGuardia, that he is going all-out (those aren't his words but they are his meanings) in providing food to hungry countries.

There's no doubt in my mind, after a survey in the field, that the global food shortage is the number one crisis of the moment—and it's urgent. The political and economic problems on hand, while pressing, are affairs as compared with the plague of hunger which is sweeping many parts of the world and is increasing in intensity daily.

There's no use giving a man machinery for economic recovery if he's too weak from starvation to work it.

Let's state this thing in terms of the crude truth. Millions of people are going to die from lack of food during the next six months — and even the best efforts we can make will not prevent that.

There are half a billion hungry folk in the world. There is food enough for only three-quarters of them. In other words some 125,000,000 unfortunate are condemned.

Action Needed Now

The question of food relief isn't one for tomorrow. It's today's big issue. The situation in the undernourished countries is deteriorating rapidly, and will continue to do so until the next harvest brings relief. That harvest is months away, and we have no assurances that it will be a good one.

The bulk of the relief naturally must come from the western hemisphere, and Uncle Sam has the greatest resources to meet the emergency. However, Canada and the Argentina will be looked to for heavy contributions. Mr. LaGuardia's announcement that he will appeal to the Argentine for grain is good news, since the underprivileged countries are banking much on help from that great country.

Still, even if every nation contributes its surplus food to relief, there won't be enough. In fact, we mustn't forget that the stocks on hand are sufficient for only three-quarters of the hungry folk.

What's the answer to that? Well, one answer is one I've given already—that millions must die. But that's not the complete picture. We can increase the available relief stocks if we peoples of the western hemisphere will share their belts a bit in the way of voluntary food rationing. In sure there are mighty few who wouldn't be eager to make that contribution if they should see the pinched faces of the hungry people abroad, especially the children.

The babies of every land employ the same language in crying for food.

Planning Group Meeting April 8

A meeting of the full membership of the Marion Civic Planning Group to take final action on the revised school building program will be held Monday night, April 8, not next Monday night, April 1. The date of the meeting was incorrectly reported in Friday night's Star.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. at Central Junior High school auditorium. In notices mailed to members the co-chairmen, J. B. Gray and Ellis H. Oiler, have urged all 280 members of the Planning Group to attend.

The revised program will be placed before the group for action. The program has been worked out by the Planning Group research committee and school officials to eliminate objections to a plan defeated by 23 votes last fall. The new program will be on the ballots at the May 7 primaries.
